

Supply Chain

Validant understands the critical importance that global supply chain standards play in the healthcare field, from point-of-production to point-of-sale or point-of-care.

Key Focus Areas

Validant's quality compliance professionals assist our clients with Quality Management Systems in a variety of areas. Our consultants serve as subject matter experts and team leaders as well as providing hands-on tactical support.

Leadership

Validant's seasoned Supply Chain professionals have the breadth and scope of experience to help companies like yours achieve the GS1 standards and protocols needed to ensure maximum interoperability between traceability systems across the healthcare supply chain and across borders..

Expertise

The GS1 System of standards is the most widely-used supply-chain standards system in the world. Issues of patient safety, product traceability, product safety and global supply chain logistics are central to a company's compliance commitments as well as brand protection and product authentication. Validant helps our clients become and remain compliant in these ever changing environments.
